

INDUSTRIAL STEEL: This piece features white cards set against a deep black canvas with desaturated, graphic industrial designs. Only the red suits stand out in sharp contrast, enhancing the raw, mechanical feel of the steel-themed aesthetic.

Michal Markowski is a West London-based artist fascinated by mathematics, chaos, and chance.

His work explores the invisible patterns hidden in randomness. He takes a premium deck of playing cards, shuffles it thoroughly while recording the process to prove the authenticity of the unique outcome, and meticulously hand-assembles every card onto A1 canvas — permanently freezing one unrepeatable moment in time.

Drawing on the immense mathematics of $52!$ permutations, he creates bold, textured artworks that celebrate both chaos and order. Each piece is completely original and exists in only one version in the entire world.
